

Haas Door adds new SelectView option

In November, Haas Door launched the new SelectView garage door window option. The new feature gives customers the choice to place windows in almost any location in a garage door.

SelectView allows builders and homeowners to customize their garage doors with unique configurations such as staggered windows, a vertical line of windows, or the option to fill the entire door with windows. The option to place windows in the bottom section of the garage door is also available.